No more Mortality for want of Water.

Sure wealth to Estancieros

By the Patent Aqueous.

Being notorious the immense injury occasioned by the scarcity of water during the long seeas that affects the interior of Buenos Ayres, I have determined to dedicate to the Estancieros my Aqueous at once simple and infallible for purveying as much water as they may require.

120 Bordalesas per hour (it seems fabulous) is provided with my apparatus, without fear of at any time its getting out of order.

This machine is worked by one horse, and in one day's work can give 1440 Bordalesas; that is to say, sufficient water for 20,000 head of cattle.

By the figures can be calculated the immense advantages gained by its use.

Another advantage is the facility of putting it together and taking it to pieces, so as to be able to transport it to any place where it may be necessary to use the other for watering purposes or others.

GREAT MODIFICATION.

I have made an improvement in my Apparatus, applying a new system, which reduces the necessary force two-thirds, giving it at the same time more rapidity.

Those interested can see it at Calle Moreno, No. 346 (Hienerrudo, Paris).

One sole Inspection of the Apparatus will prove to them the superiority of it over any other.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 23, 1863.

THE ENTRE RIOS BUSINESS.

There are many who regard the present affair at La Paz (the particulars of which will be found in another column) as a mere trifle, but there are others who believe it one of the most serious things which has occurred in the Argentine Republic since Pavon. In order that our readers can form a proper idea of the matter, we call attention to the following facts.

The revolution in La Paz is headed by a man named Beron, who is one of the most determined and blood-thirsty gauchos in Entre Rios; besides being colonel in the regular army, he is chief of the Indians of San Xavier, and we are credibly informed that if he was defeated to-morrow by Urquiza, which many people regard as impossible, he could swim across the Parana and lead the savages against the Christians.

But if Beron is a man possessing such gaucho and Indian influence, his first officer, Don Placida Gomez, is a still more dangerous character; although now for the first time we hear of this officer, we are told that, after Urquiza, he is one of the most popular chiefs in Entre Rios. Along the frontier line of Corrientes, Placido Lopez is absolute. We are not told that bands of Montoneras are prowling about, all acknowledging Placido Lopes as their chief. This, then, is the man who now seconds Beron. In proof of the power of these men, we may state that in a few days they had two thousand men, all well mounted and armed, at their orders.

Furthermore it is notorious that in Parana and elsewhere the feeling amongst the people is extremely revolutionary, and it is worthy of notice that in Entre Rios every house in the country is full of firearms. Unlike the Government here, the soldiers are permitted to take their arms to their houses. The consequence is that every gaucho in that country is a soldier armed and accoutred.

Urquiza has marched at the head of two thousand men. Why? Because in the whole province of Entre Rios he could not find an officer to trust. According to calculations made by experienced men, it is thought that Urquiza is to day at Nogoya, which is close to La Paz. But is it likely that Beron will wait in La Paz from the 8th, when he commenced his rebellion, up to the 22nd? rather is it not more probable that he has marched on Parana, recruiting as he went, and then turned in the direction of the Correntino frontier. God grant that this Entre Riano affair may blow over, but let us not forget that there are fifty thousand barrels of gunpowder in that province. This row is not created by Urquiza against Buenos Ayres, still less by Beron against Urquiza. It is an organised attempt to overturn the National Government, and demands the most energetic steps on the part of President Mitre. In Cuba there exists, besides the gunpowder we mentioned, sixty-six cannons, of which six are rifled, twelve thousand muskets, and twenty thousand lances. If Beron outflanks Urquiza and possesses upon this parque of artillery, there will be a flame lit in Entre Rios which will require all Lagrana's exertions to keep from crossing the frontier.

BARQUE GOLDEN EAGLE.

The following is the captain's statement concerning the wreck of this vessel:—

Left Liverpool on the 24th September with a full cargo of general merchandise, with a fine fair wind; at midnight off the Skerry's, wind N.W., and proceeded down Channel with the same wind, and had a very fine passage. On the 17th of November saw Lobos Island bearing N.W., distance about 10 miles, 50 or 60 vessels coming out of the Plata, but no pilots to be had; wind light and veering from W.N.W. to N.W. On the 18th at noon good observation, calm, at noon lat. 35 50 south, took cast of lead to try the current, but found no current: light breeze sprung up from N.N.W., ship heading W. and W. by N.; nine p.m. wind shifted from N.W. to S. and E.; steered W.N.W. midnight steered N.W; two a.m. W.N.W, the lead going all the time; four a.m. 4 fathoms water, have the main topsail to the mast, and drifting into 3½ fathoms, let go the anchor, saw a schooner bearing up, thought she was a pilot schooner, hoisted the ship's flag she was not a pilot schooner; he asked where I was bound to, I told him B. Ayres, he told me to steer S.W. by S. until I deepened the water to 4 fathoms, and edge of to the westward; I weighed and steered N. half E., deepened to 4 fathoms and gradually edged off; went up to the top gallant mast head and saw the land bearing about W. by W. 9 a.m. steering north 3½ fathoms water; 8 30 steering N N W, the same water; but at 9 a.m. the ship struck, immediately took the helm down, have the lead over, and found nearly three fathoms of water on both sides, went all ahead, the same water, but the ship remained quite stationary, let go the starboard anchor, heaved all the sails up, put boat out, got anchor and five inch warp out to windward, have tight, hove up the anchor, and have a good strain on the warp, it parted; put the two bow bowers and got the heavy stain anchor and a new 7-inch cable; by the mate and four men went to run it out to windward, let go the anchor, and veered out about half a cable, the current running so strong that it took the long boat under the water; had to let go the kedge anchor, so that we never got the hawser on board; tried several times to back the fore topsail and get the head rails to draw but could not, all the time the ship heeling heavily. At six p.m. sounded the pumps, and found three feet of water; all hands to the pumps; pumped all night. At daylight sounded the pumps, found the water gaining, and the long boat to be put out, as I thought it my duty to go at once to Buenos Ayres for lightened assistance. During the time we were putting the long boat out she made two feet of water, which made seven feet when I left with two boys and a man, and arrived at Buenos Ayres on Sunday morning. I immediately proceeded to my consignees, Messrs. Huss Brothers and Co., who immediately sent me with one of their lighters from Messrs. Casares and Co., but all the agreement we could come to was that they would do what they were willing to settle it by two British merchants at the port. On Monday saw H. M. British Consul, who ordered me to Messrs. Casares and Co., to see if she could render any assistance. In the meantime we called a meeting of the consignees of the cargo to get the best advice, and Mr. Wilkinson, of the lighter the cargo up at four patacones per ton, provided it was delivered to her by the mate, and that the ship was abandoned, on salvage. I proceeded down with H. M. gunboat Dotterel; when we got down found her all covered with water, and the mate had left her, and after the boat had left with the captain it came on to blow, and the ship filled three feet more water, so that we had not a clean breach over her. The crew refused to stop any longer, they lowered their small port some provisions in, and unfortunately put some of the cargo in the long-boat and since tied up in a handkerchief it fell into the water and sunk; they left the ship, and reached the boat, which they had to drag over mud about five miles, up to their middle; they left at daylight and got the ship, left her at night again on the same tide, and found matters alongside, went up to the ship, but a Mr. Roberts told the chief officer that there was not room for all, but not much. Mr. Roberts had broken open the hatches, and taken the cargo out; but when I got down the lighter the crew on board refused to let us on board, leaving on his back, and tearing up the flesh of the neck; he can kill a man by a blow with his cutlass. The chief officer's name is Yngaraite, but tigers seldom molest the high roads, or dwelling houses. The alligator is scarcely more formidable, being only a monsters from 12 to 20 feet long, and confining his sanguinary taste to small animals which frequent the water's edge.

I have also ady said that most of the inhabitants are occupied in agriculture, cattle-rearing, cheese-making, tanneries and tanner ies: there are also sugar distilleries which give excellent molasses, and yard's for boat-building, where many of the small craft on the Parana are constructed; I spoke, yesterday, with one of the carpenters, a very intelligent native, who had served 8 years in the French dockyards.

This province is the 5th in size and 3rd in population, of the Argentine Republic, and probably the most favored by Nature: it is divided into the following 19 departments, Capital, Goya, Bella Vista, Saladas, San Roque, Mburucuyu, Yguarete-Corra, San Miguel, Itati, Caacati, San Luis, Empedrado, Curuzu-Cuatia, Monte Caseros, Sa Cruz, San Cosme, Monte Caseros, and Empedrado, most of which have distinct municipalities.

The city of Corrientes was founded in 1858 by the brothers Alonzo and Juan de Vera, under the name "San Juan de Vera de las Siete Corrientes," for the Parana here runs in 7 rapid currents. The first settlement only counted 26 fighting men, who being surrounded by tribes of hostile Guayeurus, entrenched themselves behind a palisade and mud bastion, about half-a-mile from the "barranca" under whose shelter their ship lay at anchor. The site is now marked by a graceful column called "La Cruz del milagro" tradition says that here stood a large wooden cross, outside the fort, before which the garrison prayed, during their heroic resistance to the besiegers. The Indians supposing it possessed of a charm carried it off and tried to burn it, but in the attempt kindling the wood of which they were dispersed by a stroke of lightning, and the caciques, with 6,000 warriors, embraced the new religion by tens of baptisms. In 1806 some excavators here discovered remains of an old clay entrenchment, and an Indian arrow which served to confirm the tradition.

Corrientes ranks as a 4th city in the republic; it is distant about 270 leagues or 90 miles from B. Ayres, and one third of that distance from the capital of Entre Rios. The Government is vested in a Governor, Chamber of 24 Deputies, Supreme Judge, Chief of Police, Justices of Peace, and minor authorities called Fiscals and Tenientes. There are some foreign vice-consuls, but no British agent, since Mr. Billinghurst's resignation. The Government house, regularly called "the college," having formerly belonged to the Jesuits, is a splendid edifice of colonial style, and is planted with cotton from samples used this year in trying the various seeds.

Excellent horse-shoes are well made, pleasing, intelligent, and kind to strangers. They are also peaceable, but the country was a prey to civil war, during their decade against the tyrant Rosas. Three fourths of the people are colored, and usually speak Guarani, although the official language is Spanish; of the remainder a large portion is French or Italian. The young ladies are very witty and engaging, and marriageable at the early age of 16, play the piano tolerably, and embroider skilfully but this is almost the amount of their education. A cigarette is a delicious smoke, but the lady of the house usually invites you with a cigar, when visiting: whether owing to the heat of the climate or not, I found Guarani rum scarce; the thermometer to-day has gone up to 100.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

The press of La Paz has opened peoples eyes to the great utility of Urquiza in Entre Rios after all; before we even knew in Buenos Ayres of the disturbance, Urquiza had marched at the head of his men, and was upon the rebels. People may talk as they like, but Urquiza has proved himself a man to his word. Many think, however, that he will not be able to put down this revolt, as the feeling in that part of Entre Rios is very revolutionary: we auxiously hope that he will, before the flames spread further.

Nadal is in the Uruguay, and Lamela within hail. Everything seems very quiet on either side of that river, but there is a storm brewing, and we hear, President Mitre has got wind of it. One of the coolest acts we ever read of in Argentine history, was Nadal's stopping the steamer; had the Captain of the Patry been a Yankee, we would have known more or countrymen. Two white-boats, armed with carronades, cañas tacuara, and cabbage stalks, run right up alongside of a steamer, and, without even firing a cab of mist at the Captain, or an unscooped maté cup at the Mate, makes her haul to, and then ransack the vessel. Why the Captain stopped we are at a loss to say, he might have suspected that Nadal had not his men behind, or saluted the party who boarded the steamer, with hot tea, &c.

The riots of Sunday have created a profound sensation amongst property holders in this city. Why the Government did not interfere seems a mystery to us, but up to generally speaking that it is so give certain politicians rope enough. Nevertheless persons who hold property in this city, complain severely, and with good cause. If a gang of fellows is permitted to tear up the roof of the Merced, to morrow or next week they will have them unroofing our private houses. The Government is greatly blamed.

Yesterday received a visit from Sr. Gimenez, who showed us a letter from his son, who resides in Corrientes, stating that the cotton plants are doing well, and that he is busy picking in a part of the plantation. In speaking of politics, he says that things look as if all would go peacefully, that the Correintes are afraid of trouble from Entre Rios.

To-night we have "Rigoletto" in the Colon. We hear a great many things of the new company. Many assert that it is the best that ever yet visited the River Plate.

M. De Lave we hear will not perform again for a few days, as he is about to enter into arrangements with a dramatic company. We approve of the plan, for no matter how good his acting, people tire of such performance.

We call attention to a notice in another column from Miss Stuart, relative to a school which she intends opening on the 4th January. She is a highly accomplished young lady, and we have no doubt will be well supported. A children's school, in the part of the town where she resides, was greatly wanted.

The names of the new Bank Directors will be found in another column. The Provincial Government returns thanks to the outgoing Board. We suppose, but we suppose, Miss Sommes, he makes war support war. The Fairy, after Nadal let her, dropped down the river, with all steam on.

We regard this act of Nadal's as one of the most daring yet perpetrated during the war, and only goes to show that if some measures are not at once resorted to, to put down this revolution we shall have the Uruguay filled with privateers.

LATEST FROM MONTEVIDEO

Since the misunderstanding between the two Governments, our means of receiving news, from the other side of the river, have been somewhat scanty; however, we do not mean to imply by, this, any sluggishness on the part of our Montevideo correspondents, for every one of our readers can testify to their diligence and exactness. Want of communication has been the first fruits of this unhappy dispute, and we hope that the reality of this evil alone, will deter our Government from carrying the quarrel further. The only matter of interest that has reached us, is the proposition made by the Deputy Gonzalez, to appoint the second Sunday in January next for the forthcoming election of representatives.

The Committee of Petitions have given its opinion on the project of Deputy Costa, declaring vacant the seat of representative D. Manuel M. Aguiar.

The news from the army is unimportant. The troops that which licensed on the 15th return to their post, and are massed along the Rio Negro, watching the fords from the Paso de los Toros, to La Boca del S.

The bandit Chacon, who had been committing great barbarities in the Department de la Colonia, has just been captured by prisoners, with many of his companions, by the Chief of Police of that department.

There is a report that the 'colorados' have made a serious defeat in the Department del Paysandu. This is due to a sudden sally of Colonel Lavegna, the principal chief, with Colonel Lamelo, from Salto. They came upon the 'colorados' so unexpectedly, that the latter retired before them with serious loss.

Latest news. The army is encamped at Arroyo Grande. Great enthusiasm prevails among the troops, and numbers of Flores' men are passing over.

THE RAIN.

What a change has come over the face of nature within the last few days; and a more wonderful effect the fall of a few gracious drops of rain in a week after weak passed, and we breathed almost death: the flower drooped and died—the vegetables withered—the trees gave no shadow—the horse and the ox had not wherewithal to quench their thirst—they had no refuge from the burning heat of the sun—the sheep and cattle died by thousands, and man himself suffered from the killing heat: but Providence said: rejoiced to see the labours of the year destroyed—hearken his cyes: he looked wistfully to the sky above, but not a cloud relieved his eager eye: he looked around, but no change comes over his spirit: the sky is overcast, the thunder rolls, the clouds of Heaven burst, and down comes the rain in abundance. Nature caines forth in a new garb—the grass grows in abundance—the trees give their shadow—the streams flow from above with delight, and man, in his gratitude, returns to his closet, composes his thoughts, and utters his Maker the thankfulness of his heart. L.

THE MUNICIPAL ELECTION.

The following is the result of the elections on Sunday last.

Catedral al Norte—Thirty people wounded, ten thousand brick-bats thrown into the street, several yards of wide walk destroyed, and D. D. Marcelle Mesquito said to be elected. Suplente—Dr. D. Jose, M. Uriarte.

Socorro.—Things very quiet; no heads cut or bones broken; a slight row in an adjacent pulperia, and Dr. Di Lorenzo Torres said to be elected, with D. Juan Martin suplente.

San Telmo—Good attendance of voters, slight scrimmage in the street, and D. Mariano C. Echagarai said to be elected, with D. Carlos J. Brandesen suplente.

"I observed in his timbers" last the audacious privateer might possibly take it in his head to twice him with him, and force him to cook an board the whale-boats; but Nadal seemed not to know of the illustrious character who was on board, but commenced searching the boat, from stem to stern, in vain for the lost Aquilar. The search being over, the captain of the steamer and the Colonel thought that they had better draw up a protest and read it to Nadal. Nadal, however, evidently thought otherwise, and we have to understand that he had no time for such nonsense Our informant does not state whether Nadal levied any fine on the steamer, but we suppose, Miss Sommes, he makes war support war. The Fairy, after Nadal let her, dropped down the river, with all steam on.

We regard this act of Nadal's as one of the most daring yet perpetrated during the war, and only goes to show that if some measures are not at once resorted to, to put down this revolution we shall have the Uruguay filled with privateers.

THE 'STANDARD' ABROAD.

PROVINCE OF CORRIENTES.

Corrientes Dec. 8. 1863.

This province includes a superficies of 6,500 square leagues, which is about the extent of England, and has a population of 170 to 180 thousand souls, of whom 16,000 are in the district of the capital. It is in General level and well wooded and watered, no elevation reaching the height of 100 yards, while forests are frequently met in the interior and lining the banks of the principal rivers, Parana, Uruguay, Sta Lucia, Corrientes, Batel, Miriñay, Empedrado and Aquapey. There are 8 to 10 lagoons of great extent, Ybera and Malaya, in the north of the province.

The climate is rather warm, the latitude being 27 to 33, longitude 55 to 60, and it may be said there is no winter, for, at rare intervals is perceived a slight frost. I have not seen a single fire-place, the inhabitants being ignorant of this 'sine qua non' of English comfort. Sickness is rare, except small pox, traces of which are visible on numerous persons. I have met in the streets. The soil is most fertile, producing in abundance the necessaries and luxuries of life: I have, however, noted that the flour comes from Rosario, as there is a prevalent idea, that wheat does not prosper, and other cereals, therefore, take its place. Although the land is eminently suited for agriculture, and most of the country people have large tracts under cultivation, the pastures are still more notable: instead of the 'pasto fuerte' so objectionable to sheep farmers in Entre Rios, near Banda Oriental, there is a fine, soft 'gramilla,' like artificial grass. The principal trees are the lapacho, ibapay and timbo, unknown elsewhere, the flandubay and algarrobo so much used in B. Ayres for posts and rafters, the cupinilla an excellent firewood, several classes of palms, the cactus, flowering aloe, orange lime, citron, and gigantic cotton tree. The last often passes 10 feet, flourishing 20 or 30 years, and gives several pounds of first-rate cotton. Among the products are tobacco, rice, sugar-cane, aniseed, and a species of tobacco, which, grown in the district of Ytatichoro, is said to surpass any in the rest of Paraguay. The territory of Misiones, divided between Brasil, Paraguay, and Corrientes, produces the yerba from which we make the long but evil beverage 'maté.' Want of communication prevents the development of this industry, and the existence of protective duties leaves Paraguay a preferable monopoly. The Yerbales are at present common property, but it is proposed to lease them out to a company of Buenos Ayrean capitalists, who will make them much more productive: here however, arises the question of traditional right by those poor families who must either be expelled or converted into peons.

There is an abundant variety of Indian fruits, with Guarani names, difficult to remember or even to write down, but well known for their luscious taste, fragrance, and wholesome properties. The sensitive plant which folds up its leaves at the least touch is a great curiosity, and in the woods the flowers of wild creepers, of delicious odor, which are easily transplanted, but unfortunately little cared for.

Serpents, with the vipers, lizens, and alligators are very numerous, but more alarming in name than reality, as all flee on the approach of man, unless provoked. They commit great depredations in hen roosts, and the serpents are so fond of milk that they suck the cows, without doing them any harm. We have been credibly informed of a snake sucking a woman's breast, while she was asleep, and it reached the boat, which ed away before biting the unconscious patient. Tiger hunting is a dangerous diversion: two men on foot armed severally with a long spear, encounter the ferocious game; while the beast is preparing to spring, the villeman aims at his head, and pierces it: the shock is terrible, for no sooner has the bullet gone forth than the tiger leaps through the smoke at the assailants, and then the lancer must avoid the claws. A good shin, measuring from 6 to 8 feet is sometimes worth a doubloon. The tiger kills on an average 3 cattle a day, ing on his back, and tearing up the flesh of the neck: he can kill a man by a blow of his terrible claw. The Indian name is Yaguarete, but tigers seldom molest the high roads, or dwelling houses. The alligator is scarcely more formidable, being only a monsters from 12 to 20 feet long, and confining his sanguinary taste to small animals which frequent the water's edge.

I have alre ady said that most of the inhabitants are occupied in agriculture, cattle-rearing, cheese-making, tanneries and tanner ies: there are also sugar distilleries which give excellent molasses, and yard's for boat-building, where many of the small craft on the Parana are construc ted: I spoke, yesterday, with one of the carpenters, a very intelligent native, who had served 8 years in the French dockyards.

This province is the 5th in size and 3rd in population, of the Argentine Republic, and probably the most favored by Nature: it is divided into the following 19 departments, Capital, Goya, Bella Vista, Saladas, San Roque, Mburucuyu, Yguarete-Corra, San Miguel, Itati, Caacati, San Luis, Empedrado, Curuzu-Cuatia, Monte Caseros, Sa Cruz, San Cosme, Monte Caseros, and Empedrado, most of which have distinct municipalities.

LOOK OUT FOR SQUALLS.

Steamers plying in the Uruguay should be on-eful of squalls, as they are rather prevalent at present, particularly from the Oriental shore. The little steamer Fairy, or, as she is now called, the Concordia, nearly perished the other day, owing to her indiscreet captain, who, without any one on board saw two white squalls approaching, took not the least heed.

The 'Semmes' of the river Uruguay is Nadal, who with two small fishing or whale boats ran up alongside the steamer Fairy, and with Fray Bentien weapons made her haul to. Jumping on the quarter-deck he called for the captain, and demanded his papers, in order to see his list of passengers. Having inspected the papers, he shouted out, "Where, oh! where, is Fausto Aguilar?" The cook answered "Where?" As luck would have it, an Argentine Consul was on board, who

In La Pledad—Owing to the disturbances that took place when it was attempted to form the electoral table, there was no election. Several citizens badly wounded, amongst the rest Don Mateo Martinez.

In the Pilar—a similar result happened from the absence of the municipal whose duty it was to insist proceedings.

We believe that the party called the "crudos" exists in this city. Well now they exclaim with the Roman General, "Another such victory and I am undone."

THE ARGENTINE CENTRAL RAILWAY.

The system of Permanent Way adopted in London for the Great Central Argentine Railway, is that lately patented by Mr. G. Heatherstone Griffin, C. E., and which, after thorough examination, and trial, has received the decided approval of the Chief Engineer of the Great Northern Railway, Mr. Johnson, as also of Messrs Peto & Betts, Mr. Brassey, Sir Charles Fox, Trevethick and several other competent parties. The advantages of this system are, for the most part, the result of mechanical construction, and it has been so simplified that skilled labour is not required for laying the line, which operation can be performed in one fourth of the time ordinarily required. The Way is, in fact, composed of only four parts, viz. the sleeper, the tie bar, the rail, and the lock, dispensing altogether with bolts, nuts, screws, washers, spikes, tree-nails, fish-plates and wooden wedges, and the weight of material is consequently 22 to 23 per cent less than that required in the common sleeper system.

The "George Krell" the first ship vessel chartered to bring material for the Central Railway, had commenced loading in England, at sailing of last packet.

We call attention to the above important invention, and we congratulate Mr. Wheelwright, upon his good luck in adopting it to the Argentine Central Railway. It will save both time and money, and in the end, prove a more durable road.

NUISANCES.

Buenos Ayres is certainly a great place, and this is a deep conviction, on my part, dear editor. I got up to-day and left my lodgings, Calle Cangallo, to partake of my cold breakfast at the club, as usual, when I was met by a little boy, who put a red bill of paper to my nose, crying 'cien mil pesos,' I am a nervous man, and the sum thus tendered to me made me jump a yard back and upset a big Italian gentleman, who picked himself up, and cried, as far as I can remember, 'la sueste grande;' I took it to be a piece of insolence, and hurling back a look of defiance, I re-arranged my spectacles, and continued my way; just, however, as I was getting round the corner, I was struck in the pit of the stomach (abdomen, I believe), by a little boy shouting stentoriously after a quiet French gentleman, 'tome un cuarto,' with another batch of red papers in his hand, but the Frenchman continued deaf for a time, and I could not imagine the reason, until he suddenly wheeled round, and applied the entire palm of his hand to the urchin's ear, and sent him half a dozen yards astray. I could not explain this phenomenon, but I have lately been reliably informed, that this was Rosas' colour, and now see that it must have been a political squabble, in which I have resolved never to interfere while I am in the country.

Met round the corner a genteel-looking black fellow, yellow stick-ups, no shoes, and he asked me for something, pointing to my nose; thought it was the specimen he wanted, when he signified again for my short cigar, took it between forefinger and thumb, and gave it back to me with a greasy impression in the middle, and sooty towards the mouth or smoking part. Had to throw it away. Blessed Buenos Ayres and blacks: colloquising so far as corner of Piedad and San Martin, until I met a mulatto girl, silk dress, glass diamonds in the ears, making an imitation grampus noise as she sailed along; short tuneful, broad street; I pushed off the footpath on a little hole full of mud, which flew up my pants and on this side, called 'gringo,' which means, I suppose, 'never mind,' or something in that style. I bowed and passed along towards the club-door; saw a Teutonic member giving directions to a cartman, fine military man, blue coat, red cuffs, dirty brass buttons. I remark all cartmen wear military coats and caps; probably they belong to the cart-militia, a highly effective corps, I dare say. Went in to breakfast, and asked the loan of a pencil to note down in my memorandum book these facts, for a work I shall publish in England on my return. Verily, I can say, I have never seen any-place at which stranger things take place than in this Plate. Anglicus.

THE ELECTIONS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "STANDARD."

Dear Sir,

Allow a great traveller to suggest to the Porteños, through the columns of your paper, his admiration of their mode of carrying through their elections. I have witnessed these scenes in many parts of the world, and must say that no city in the Universe except New Orleans, and one or two others in the States, has advanced and so civilized in this respect, as Buenos Ayres. Why, my Dear Sir, I have witnessed as many as 7 duels carried off, either dead or mortally wounded in the above city, on such occasions; and my heart rejoiced with delight to see the last pastimes, as I witnessed the exciting scene that took place yesterday, before the Merced and La Paz.

There was certainly a display of revolvers, but the bowie knife was wanting, at least I did not see it used, and then the former instrument was not handled with that tact, liberality, and politeness, as elsewhere mentioned Nevertheless I must say, my heart felt satisfaction at the scene, and I have little doubt of their ultimate success.

In this and other ideas of modern civilization, we approve of the idea of the proprietor of La Paz, who affirms that his Hotel shall be henceforth called 'La Guerra.' A Traveller.

PEACE AND WAR.

Carmen de Areco, Dec. 17, 1863.

To the Editors of the Standard.

Gentlemen,

In looking over the last number of your deservedly popular newspaper, I was much animated by the perusal of an able and well-directed editorial in one of its valuable columns, relating to the evil consequences attending an immediate war with Montevideo.

Some have unadvisedly brought into view those glowing incidents in the history of our race which seem to prove that war has sometimes been effected the most expeditious method of liberty, but we have seldom stated any of the numberless instances in which it has been the most tremendous curse to bind fetters and rivet the most galling chains round the necks of the people. So that, if we were only to strike a balance between its supposed blessings in some instances and its positive curses in tons of thousand of cases, wise men must come to the conclusion that war is a foolish and a horrid game to play at. But the supporters of moral force as the only wise and prudent course for men to resort under all circumstances are not dependent on this statement of the case, triumphant though it be, for the truth of their opinions; for I have no doubt it could be shown that in all those cases where men have fought for liberty, and to all appearance conquered their foes, not free ion was never the result. I will not instance those despotic Governments in the world which only make way of the people for the enslavement of the poor; but I will ask, have the successful wars of these powers made their own people free or advanced the love of liberty in their souls? Answer—their standing armies and navies, and their readiness to emptying them for the subjugation of mankind. Take the United States of America: is she free? Has she conquered her despots and secured her liberties by the sword? Witness her present condition; witness her Lynch law, and witness her unwillingness to abolish slavery. No, no; any country is not free which depends on too much physical force: they generally neglect moral means, and in consequence they are torn by intestine commotions having given supremacy to the bad feelings and propensities of our nature which in some measure is common with the brute creation; the natural result of all the violations of the laws of our nature have been the consequences we are uneasy in our domestic relations, the body politic is diseased, and therefore, we will continue to be, until we resort to right principles for our government. Thoughts of war and violence must be altogether laid aside. We must cultivate the minds of those poor young lads who have nothing else to do only curling, frizzling, and spitting their hair in the middle, and to the sides, and we must make the law of love supreme.

Then will the genius of liberty take up her abode with us, and hostility, with all its bloody sat-llites, will be banished from amongst us.

Those who take the sword will perish by the sword. This is the law of God; it is true of individuals, it is true of nations, and it is true of war and violence. Stimulate the evil passions of any people, and when they have conquered external enemies, internal ones will assuredly rise and have their being, and in the end they will have the mastery. The history of the world proves this. Nature by nature which has risen by force has fallen, and left not a wreck of former glory behind them. In speaking of the deeds of warriors who have left a name behind, some of them were, I admit, dignified by great virtues, but most of them were a disgrace to humanity. We cannot undo what has been done in the world, but we can remedy some of the evils bequeathed to us by our fathers. War, and the spirit of war, number among these. Let us henceforth cultivate peace and the spirit of peace, and our neighbours will follow our example. Let us sow the good seed, and all good will come gushing forth with life immortal: it will ripen into a glorious harvest of happiness amongst us, when each man may sit under his own vine and under his own ombu, and suck his maté quietly and peaceably. It is true that peace is now considered the best policy for Buenos Ayres, and that, therefore, their is no fear, at present of fear, of civil war. But this feeling cannot satisfy the friends of peace: we want that abhorrence of all war, and that as a fixed principle in all hearts. I believe that is the only sound policy, and the only certain road to tranquility.

Let us have no more revolutions: let men be no longer trained to do murder—no longer trained to consider the soldier's profession an honourable one, or to confound all ideas of right and wrong, by giving any support to the war system, which is so inimical to human happiness.

In the hopes that you will have no objection, gentlemen, to give a letter a place in your widely read paper, so as to show the deplorable and irreparable consequences attending war.

I remain, gentlemen,

Respectfully yours,

A Galway Man.

We call President Mitre's attention to the above letter. We wish we could praise the style as we do the sentiment of our Galway friend.

THE SUFFERER'S BEST FRIEND.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.

ALL DISORDERS AFFECTING THE LIVER, STOMACH AND BOWELS.

These Pills can be safely recommended to the notice of every one desirous of having a medicine that will thoroughly purify the blood, correct every disorder of the stomach, remove obstructions of the bowels, and give tone and vigour to the whole system. They may be taken under any circumstances without making any change in diet, and the most delicate constitution may use them with perfect safety in all cases. They are wonderfully efficacious in the following complaints:—

WEAKNESS, DEBILITY, NERVOUS IRRITABILITY, &c. All nervous disorders arise from the same source, viz., blood impurity, and hence the necessity of keeping the blood pure, as on this depends the health or disease of the whole system. These Pills are composed of the most searching, yet safe and gentle purifying ingredients, and may be safely given to the most delicate child or infirm person, as they do not contain any mercury, or other dangerous drug, but are purely vegetable, and may be relied on as a safe and effectual remedy for all diseases arising from impure blood.

OLD COUGHS, COLDS, AND ASTHMATICAL AFFECTIONS.

These Pills, united to Holloway's Ointment, will be found very effectually to cure the most obstinate cough, cold, asthma, bronchitis, or any affection of the throat, chest, or lungs. For children suffering from hooping cough, measles, or scarlet fever, they will be found invaluable, as they will quickly clear away all impurities from the stomach, and so assist the efforts of nature in throwing out the disease. Parents should never be without this safe and effectual remedy in the house, as it may be relied on to cure any cough, cold, or fever, however violent, in a few hours, if the directions for administering it are strictly attended to.

Holloway's Pills are the best remedy known in the world for the following Diseases:—

Ague	Female Irregularities	Piles, all forms
Asthma	Fevers of all kinds	Rheumatism
Bilious Complaints	Fits	Retention of Urine
Blotches on the Skin	Gout	Scrofula or Kings Evil
Bowel Complaints	Head-ache, Sick	Sore Throats

The want has long been felt of an establishment where in the frugal and laborious citizen might deposit his savings, so as to incur no risk, and reap at the same time a good return.

This institution is calculated to answer such a purpose extending the benefits of the establishment to even the humblest classes

Public attention is, therefore, specially called to the manner of subscriptions and the investment of funds, according to the rules at the meetings.

The PREVISORA ARGENTINA will receive subscriptions as follows:

1st. On one's own life, in shares of 25 silver each These subscriptions liquidated at any time, at the subscriber's time and option.

2nd. Without loss of capital by death of the insurer. Subscribers will be entitled to compound interest on their subscriptions and the proportional interest forfeited by the death of other shareholders in their Class, which capital, however is returned.

3rd. With loss of capital and interest by insurer's death. All shareholders of this class shall gain compound interest on their subscriptions, besides a proportional part of the capital and interest of all who die to their Class.

All these subscriptions may be paid weekly, monthly, quarterly, half yearly, or yearly.

The capital of the Company shall be invested only in landed property (fincas), and with the greatest security.

The Board of Inspectors, composed of architects, shall have charge of all the operations of the Company.

For further particulars, apply at the Co's office 87 calle S. Martin (altos) between the hours of 11 — 4; prospectuses given on application. n17

SAVINGS BANK.
BANK MAUA & C°.
— No. 103 calle de Cangallo. —

BUENOS-AYRES.

The immense advantages of Accounts Current are now so generally felt, and appreciated in the great emporiums of the River Plate—Montevideo & Buenos Ayres—that there are very few Merchants who fail to keep one at the bank in which they place the most confidence

The Bank of Mauá & Co, in Montevideo has already provided for the working class in that city, a safe & profitable depositary for their savings.

The sums deposited in that most important institution are daily increasing and already reach a very large amount.

These advantages have not hitherto been enjoyed in this city by an immense number of Clerks, artisans, working-men & servants of all classes & conditions who are equally interested in putting their savings out at interest, thus providing themselves with a reserve fund in case of need, sickness or old age instead of spending them in the immoral gambling, in lotteries and other trivolities

The Bank of Mauá and Co. of this city following the example of their CONDITIONS.

1st. The Bank receives at interest any sum from Twenty five dollars currency or one silver dollar upwards.

2nd. The interest allowed is six per cent [6 p$] per annum which is liquidated every 31 days.

3rd. The depositor can at any time retire the whole or part of the money deposited.

4th. Once the amount deposited exceeds Twenty five thousand dollars currency or one thousand dollars silver the depositor if he wishes can open an account current according to the rules established by the Bank.

5th. In case the depositor loses his Pass Book it can be replaced by another on paying twelve dollars currency, and advertising the loss in the public newspapers.

No more Scab in Sheep.

Patented by Government.

General Store in Buenos Ayres at 265 CALLE BUEN ORDEN.

Store at Villa Mercedes, of Messrs Kantz and Schwengel.

Store at Tuyú, Establishment of D Carlos Geyer.

The shearing time being at hand, the Inventor of the Anti-Scab Specific for curing Cutaneous Diseases in Sheep, and all domestic Animals, begs to inform the Estancieros that it can never be applied to such effect as after shearing, when it not only cures the worst cases, but acts as a preservative against the disease.

The simplest method is bathing the animal, whether sound or affected, in the manner prescribed by the instructions.

The Specific has been already found an effectual remedy for Insects (Garrapatas).

Numerous certificates may be seen, showing the high repute of the Specific throughout S. America. Its low price places it within the reach of all, 20lb. sufficing for 800 or 1000 Sheep. It contains no poisonous quality, and is sold at the above Depots.

ENGLISH GRAMMAR SCHOOL,
CALLE LARGA DE BARRACAS.

Dor.—Mr. Pongerard, f the London University College.

This Establishment, which from its foundation has been patronised by the principal British families of Buenos Ayres, is an exact reproduction of an E glish School, where a sound commercial education combined with the acquisition of the French and Spanish languages is imparted to the pupils, and based upon the same system as all first class European institutions of the kind.

An ever-watchful and constant attention, and a strict maintenance of order and propriety, are a sufficient guarantee that the moral and behaviour of the pupils are carefully attended to.

The different branches taught in the English Grammar School comprise the English, French and Spanish languages, History, Geography, Arithmetic, and Book-keeping in all its parts, Writing, and Religious Instruction.

Extra branches, such as Latin, Mathematics, Geometry, M sic and Drawing, are also taught by special masters.

The situation of the English Grammar School, in one of the most delightful Quintas of the Calle Larga of Barracas, at the very gates of the city, is one of the most healthful and picturesque of the environs of Buenos Ayres.
